The Harry Potter Story

The Harry Potter books are a series of seven fantasy novels by British Writer J.K. Rowling.

The books depict a world of witches and wizards with the central character being the young wizard, Harry Potter. Most of the action takes place in the Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry and focuses on Harry Potter's struggle against the evil wizard, Lord Voldemort. The books deal with the themes of friendship, ambition, choice, courage, growing up, love and death.

In 1990, J.K Rowling was on a crowded train from Manchester to London when the idea for the series simply 'walked' into her head. But she took almost six years to finish her first novel – Harry Potter and the philosopher's Stone – which was published in the United Kingdom in July 1997. The book was renamed Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone for the American market. The last book – Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows – was released in July 2007.

Each book describes one year in Harry's life at Hogwarts, where he learns to use magic and brew potions. The wizarding world in which Harry finds himself is a collection of hidden streets, lonely country manors and castles that remain invisible to the large non-magical population known as "Muggles". It is also a world of elves and ghosts, dragons and monsters, owls and flying broomsticks, a world where the Hogwarts Express departs from platform 9.

J.K. Rowling's series of books has won many awards including the Hugo award for the Best Novel. The seven books released have together sold more than 300 million copies and been translated into ninety three languages. The last book Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows alone broke sales records as the fastest – selling book ever, selling more than 11 million copies in the first twenty – four hours after its release.
